

Harshita

Welcome to sign-in page!

Welcome back, fam!

Dear,

View your profile

Feedback

Sign Your Feedback

View your profile

Sign in

Harshita Vijendra Kumar
@harshita_vijendra_kumar

Profile Summary
Harshita is a professional with a strong background in software development and project management. She has worked for several years at various companies, including Google and Microsoft, where she has been instrumental in developing and launching new products. She is currently a Senior Software Engineer at Amazon, where she leads a team of developers and is responsible for the design and development of new features for the company's cloud services.

Education
Harshita has a Bachelor's degree in Computer Science from the University of California, Berkeley, and a Master's degree in Software Engineering from Stanford University.

Skills
Harshita is a highly skilled professional with expertise in a wide range of technologies, including Java, Python, JavaScript, and React. She is also a strong leader and communicator, with the ability to manage a team of developers and effectively communicate with stakeholders.

Experience
Harshita has over 10 years of professional experience in software development and project management. She has worked for several years at various companies, including Google and Microsoft, where she has been instrumental in developing and launching new products. She is currently a Senior Software Engineer at Amazon, where she leads a team of developers and is responsible for the design and development of new features for the company's cloud services.

Projects
Harshita has been involved in several high-profile projects, including the development of new features for Google's search engine, the launch of Microsoft's new operating system, and the design and development of new features for Amazon's cloud services.

Publications
Harshita has published several articles and papers on topics related to software development and project management, including "The Role of Project Management in Software Development" and "The Importance of Communication in Software Development".

Awards
Harshita has received several awards and honors for her work, including the "Outstanding Achievement Award" from Google and the "Best Software Engineer" award from Microsoft.

Contact
Harshita can be reached at harshita.vijendra.kumar@gmail.com or on LinkedIn at https://www.linkedin.com/in/harshita_vijendra_kumar.